Rankne-ss of the flesh. , and fishy, that the Romish church allows its use on maigre days. In the kitchen of the Carthusian convent, near Dijon, Mr. Pennant saw one preparing for the dinner of the religieuse of th; t rigid order, who, by their rules, are prohibited, during their whole lives, the eating of flesh. The otters of Cayenne are very large, weighing from ninety to a hundred pounds. Their cry also is remarkably loud, and may be heard at a considerable distance. THE SEA OTTER. GREAT numbers of these animals are found-on the coast of Kamtschatka, and in the adjacent islands, as well as on the opposite coasts of America; but they are confined within a very few degrees of latitude. The length of the sea otter is about four feet, of which the tail occupies thirteen inches. The ears are small and erect, and the whiskers long and white. The legs are short and thick, the hinder ones somewhat resembling those of a seal. The largest of them weigh from seventy to eighty pounds. The fur is thick, long, and glosssy; and forms a considerable article of export from Russia. In their manners these animals are very harmless: and peculiarly attached to their offspring. AtfVction towards the young. They will never desert them; but will even starve themselves to death on being robbed of them, and strive to breathe their last on the spot where their young have been destroyed. The female...
