After calling attention to certain peculiarities which apparently had not before been observed, I expressed the intention of preparing a full description of it with figures for presentation to the Academy at a future meeting. In the present paper this intention is fulfilled so far as I have been able, in view of the limited material at my command, and the difficulties of interpretation which now embarrass all students of fishes brains. The extent of these difficulties becomes apparent when I state that, since Gegenbaur has lent the weight of his high authority to Miklucho-Maclay's new interpretation of the parts commonly called cerebellum and optic lobes, no region of the brain is clear as to its homology throughout the series of fish-like vertebrates. For the complete solution of these homological problems it is evident that simple and embryonic brains are primarily more useful than those of adults, or those which present peculiar characteristics. Hence I am availing myself of every opportunity for preparing and figuring, both as wholes and in sections, the brains of Myxine, Petromyzon, Menobranchus (or Necturus), and embryo sharks. But it is not likely that an embryo Chimaera will soon be available, and it seems hardly advisable to longer defer the publication of facts, some...
