The Journey through Adversity I remember the year that my mother died, October 8, 2010. It was a time of great trial for me, in that my heart was distanced from God as I was in the habit of cursing him for the misfortune that had beset me. When my mother died, we (my sister and I) had no money and her insurance was going to take some time before it was released we therefore had no money to bury her or take care of the expenses of her funeral. God however totally blew our minds away through how our family and especially her friends responded in love through kindness by supporting us financially so that we could bury her in time. I was overwhelmed through the many acts of kindness we received and that even though we had money, she was buried in fine but quiet style in an extremely good way, so that others complemented us on how we planned and executed preparations for her funeral. God poured out his love to us through the many...
